Ube Industries to Integrate Its Separators Business with Consolidated Subsidiary by Company Split (Simplified Absorption-Type Split)

TOKYO, November 1, 2018 — Ube Industries, Ltd. today announced that, per a resolution of the Board of Directors today, the Company will integrate its separators business for lithium-ion rechargeable batteries by a company split (simplified absorption-type split). In the integration, Ube Industries will split off its separators business, which will be succeeded by Ube Maxell Co., Ltd., the Company's consolidated subsidiary. The integration will take effect on January 1, 2019.

Because the integration will be by a simplified absorption-type split between Ube Industries and its consolidated subsidiary, some details regarding the integration will be withheld.

1. Purpose of the Integration

In this integration, Ube Industries will transfer its separators business to Ube Maxell, a joint venture between Ube Industries and Maxell Holdings, Ltd., as part of the reorganization of the separators business that was announced on July 31, 2018. With these changes, Ube Maxell will have an integrated framework for production and supply starting from separator base films, while offering both coated and non-coated separators. Ube Maxell will leverage its expanded product lineup to efficiently meet a wide range of market needs. By integrating the separators business under the joint venture with Maxell, Ube Industries will seek to further strengthen competitiveness and expand and develop the joint venture business in the separators market, which continues to see rapid growth in automotive applications.

2. Summary of Integration

(1) Schedule for Integration

Date of the Board of Directors' resolution	November 1, 2018
Conclusion date of company split agreement	November 8, 2018 (may be subject to change)
Date of extraordinary general meeting of shareholders of Ube Maxell Co., Ltd.	December 10, 2018 (may be subject to change)
Company split to take effect	January 1, 2019 (may be subject to change)

(Note 1) Because the integration is a simplified absorption-type split as stipulated under Article 784, Paragraph 2 of Japan's Companies Act, it will be implemented without obtaining the approval of the general meeting of shareholders of Ube Industries.

(2) Method of Integration

The integration will take the form of an absorption-type company split, with Ube Industries as the split company and Ube Maxell as the succeeding company.

(3) Details of Share Allocations for the Integration

Upon integration, Ube Maxell will issue 49,600 ordinary shares to be delivered in entirety to Ube Industries in exchange for the rights and obligations subject to succession.

(4) Handling of Stock Acquisition Rights and Bonds with Stock Acquisition Rights as a Result of Integration

The handling of stock acquisition rights for shares issued by Ube Industries will remain unchanged as a result of the integration (company split). Ube Industries has not issued bonds with stock acquisition rights.

(5) Change in Capital Due to Company Split

The capital of Ube Industries will remain unchanged as a result of the integration.

(6) Rights and Obligations Assumed by the Succeeding Company

Ube Maxell will assume the assets, liabilities, and contractual statuses of the separators business of Ube Industries.

(7) Expected Fulfillment of Obligations

Ube Maxell is expected to fulfill obligations that become due following the date that the integration (company split) takes effect.

3. Approach to Calculating the Details of Share Allocations for the Integration

The share price of Ube Maxell, a non-listed company, was calculated based on forecasted net assets as of the integration of the business. The number of shares to be allocated to Ube Industries was decided after careful deliberation involving discussions with Maxell, the other investor in Ube Maxell, regarding the estimated value of the business to be succeeded and furthermore taking into account the calculations made by an independent third-party organization using the discounted cash flow method.
